Course Title: Environmental Ethics, Water Resource Management, Water Pollution, and Health

Course Overview:

This course aims to create a pro-environment attitude and behavioral patterns, emphasizing sustainable lifestyles and awareness of environmental issues. Students will explore these topics through lectures, presentations, documentaries, and field visits.

Course Objectives:

The primary objective of this course is to sensitize students to environmental conservation, sustainable resource utilization, and health-related aspects. By the end of the course, students should be able to:

1. Understand the multidisciplinary nature of environmental studies.
2. Recognize the importance of public awareness in environmental conservation.
3. Differentiate between renewable and non-renewable resources.
4. Analyze environmental issues related to water pollution, air pollution, soil degradation, and marine ecosystems.
5. Apply sustainable practices to promote ecological balance.

Course Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Identify and Evaluate Environmental Issues:

- Distinguish between renewable and non-renewable resources.
- Discuss the causes, effects, and control measures of air pollution, water pollution, soil pollution, marine pollution, noise pollution, and thermal pollution.

2. Promote Sustainable Practices:

- Understand the significance of sustainable development and ecology.
- Explore practical solutions for sustainable resource management.
- Investigate environmental practices specific to Goa.

3. Ethical Considerations:

- Reflect on the ethical dimensions of environmental conservation.
- Analyze case studies related to deforestation, over-exploitation, and natural resource management.

Syllabus

UNIT 1: Introduction to Environmental Ethics

- 1) Definition and scope of environmental ethics
- 2) Ethical theories and perspectives (e.g., anthropocentrism, biocentrism, egocentrism)
- 3) Ethics in biodiversity conservation and sustainable development

UNIT 2: Water Resources and Management

- 1) Importance of water resources
- 2) Types of water sources (surface water, groundwater) and their characteristics
- 3) Water cycle and its significance in ecosystems
- 4) Principles of water resource management and sustainable water use practices

UNIT 3: Water Pollution

- 1) Sources and types of water pollution (e.g., point source, non-point source pollution)
- 2) Effects of water pollution on aquatic ecosystems and human health
- 3) Case studies on major water pollutants (e.g., heavy metals, pesticides, industrial waste)
- 4) Water quality standards and monitoring techniques

UNIT 4: Health Implications of Water Pollution

- 1) Waterborne diseases and their transmission pathways
- 2) Impact of contaminated water on public health and communities
- 3) Strategies for waterborne disease prevention and control

Practical Applications:

1. Field Visits and Case Studies:

- 1) Visit local ecosystems, water bodies, and pollution-affected areas.
- 2) Analyze real-world scenarios related to pollution and resource management.

2. Hands-On Projects:

- 1) Design sustainable practices for water conservation.
- 2) Propose solutions for waste management and pollution reduction.

3. Guest Lectures and Workshops:

- Invite experts to discuss environmental ethics, health implications, and sustainable practices.

Assessment Methods:

1. Quizzes and assignments to assess theoretical knowledge.
2. Practical assessments related to water quality testing and analysis.
3. Group projects and presentations on case studies and solutions.
4. Final examination covering all course modules.

Certification:

Upon successful completion of the course requirements and assessments, students will receive a Certificate in Environmental Ethics, Water Resource Management, Water Pollution, and Health from the Zoology Department. This certification signifies the student's proficiency in understanding and addressing environmental and water-related challenges in various professional settings.

Criteria Completion Report

Students are actively completed Computer Literacy course. This course provides foundational knowledge and skills that are crucial not only academically but also in personal and professional life. This course is also providing participants with hands-on experience and practical skills in various aspects of computer literacy. Through a combination of theoretical knowledge and practical exercises, students will gain proficiency in essential computer applications and tools.

Students gain a fundamental understanding of how computers work, including hardware, software, and basic troubleshooting, which are crucial for academic success and everyday life. Knowledge of word processing, spreadsheets, and presentation software can significantly improve the quality of students' assignments and projects. Students learn how to navigate the internet effectively, discern credible sources from unreliable ones, and use digital libraries and academic databases. The course enhances students' abilities to communicate in the digital world via email, online forums, and collaboration platforms. In essence, a Computer Literacy course acts as a bridge that enables students to efficiently transition from an academic setting to the professional world, empowering them to handle contemporary challenges more effectively.

Course Title: Value Added Course in Basic Mathematics

Course Overview:

This course is designed to provide students with a foundational understanding of basic of Mathematics used in Mathematics used research and practice.

Course Objectives:

- 1) Knowledge and understanding are fundamental to studying mathematics and form the base from which to explore concepts and develop problem-solving skills.
- 2) Acquire knowledge and understanding of the terms, symbols, concepts, principles, process, proofs, etc. Develop mastery of basic algebraic skills.
- 3) Select and apply appropriate inquiry and mathematical problem-solving techniques.
- 4) Use different forms of mathematical representation (formulae, diagrams, tables, charts, graphs and models).
- 5) Explain the importance of their findings.

Course Duration: 33 hrs.

Course Outline:

Basic Mathematics

Unit I: Differential Calculus

Limits and differentiation-Derivative of functions- Derivative interactive graphs-Differential Equations in Physics

Unit II: Integral Calculus

Finite sums- Limits of finite sums-Definite integrals-Integration of functions-Fundamental theorem of calculus

Unit III: Determinant and Matrix

Basics of determinants and matrices-Types of matrices- Simultaneous linear equations-Eigenvalue and eigenvectors-Matrices in Physics

Unit IV: Vector Calculus

Differentiation of vectors-Gradient, divergence, curl-Integration of vectors-line, surface and volume integral

Assessment:

- 1) Make a formula sheet.
- 2) Compile definitions.
- 3) Read ahead of the class.
- 4) Participate in class.
- 5) Practice at home.
- 6) Write out the steps.
- 7) Re-copy notes for recall.
- 8) Teach others.
