On International Women's Day

The importance of trees has been known since ancient times. There is an inseparable relationship between trees and living beings. Despite this, in the name of development, humans are cutting down trees, leading to adverse effects and losses. Planting trees is one solution to this issue. Instilling this thought in the minds of students can help us enrich nature and reduce pollution in the future.

To celebrate International Women's Day, the Computer Science Department organized a tree plantation event on March 13, 2022.

Facilities for Women on Campus

1. Safety and security for women:

Ensuring the safety and security of college girl students is paramount, and several measures contribute to this. CCTV surveillance strategically placed across campus acts as a vigilant eye, monitoring key areas to deter untoward incidents and provide evidence in case of emergencies. This surveillance isn't invasive but serves as a protective layer, especially in secluded spots and pathways.

Having a dedicated security guard stationed at the college gate enhances security by controlling access, verifying entrants, and maintaining a visible presence that acts as a deterrent to potential threats. This individual is a reassuring figure, ensuring that only authorized individuals enter the premises.

The girls' common room serves as a safe haven, fostering a sense of community and comfort among female students. Equipped with security measures like restricted access, and regular check-ins by staff, it becomes a secure space where students can relax, study, and interact without fear.

These combined measures create a comprehensive safety net, reassuring both students and their families that the college is committed to providing a secure environment conducive to learning and personal growth.
